Great battle. I really think it's a close call but in the end TC might pull some hair and use his nails

This page is oriented around members owner. This is the dashboard for viewing and interacting with other member's pages and components. So, this page will have different interactivity and views compared to looking at an owner's page.

In addition to the components above the main navigation, there is subnavigation below the bar giving the member quick access to the corresponding page's information.

As a visitor to the page you can read any information set as "public" or "friends" (if you are one) in the owner's permissions.

Also, as a visitor, you have a menu of actions to interact with the owner.

- Add me as a friend sends an automated/generic message or a custom message to the owner that you want to be friends
- Send me an mGreeting - takes the visitor to the friend's wishlist to select from the wallpapers they want but don't have. If no items are in the wishlist. The system will make some suggestions based on the friend's files in the My mobile Stuff locker.
- Knock sends a message to the owner that you want to talk
- Anyone can send a message. This is dimmed if the owner has changed that preference
- If the visitor wants to stop being friends then the visitor can block the owner from contacting them and viewing their page.
- Flagging sends a message to Mlab's staff to review the owner's content.

New content is always displayed in chronological order on the front page.
